Second prize ..... 1 50	FIVE DIFFERENT JULIETS
Third prize ..... 50	The Work of Marlowe, Galland, Adams, Arthur and Robson Compared.
264. Pair Buff Cochins ..... $4.50	Julia Marlowe, fortunately, continues to claim our attention as Juliet. The slim, girlish youthfulness of appearance which made Miss Bertha Galland's Juliet so attractive, Miss Marlowe has not; but through the finished technique of her art, through intonation, gesture and pose, she subtly and convincingly suggests a captivating girlishness. During the long speech immediately preceding the portion drinking, she moves around from the prie-dieu to the bed and on to a settee at the foot of the bed. Standing there she drinks the potion, and then falls with a weakening of all muscles at once; her knees bend and her body doubles up as she collapses in a heap on the floor. These varying methods of portraying the climactic moment of the act are but an indication of the great difference in the interpretation of the character as a whole.
First prize ..... 2 50	Miss Maude Adams and Miss Julia Arthur I saw within the space of a week's time; Miss Eleanor Robson and Miss Galland I saw on alternate nights; in each case there was a strong contrast. Miss Arthur brought to her presentation all her astounding wealth of personal beauty, and distinguished her rendition with marked restraint, behind which depth of emotional feeling was keenly in evidence. Miss Adams omitted many of the more passionate lines of the role, so as to bring the part within the scope of her ability; but even then she presented a naive American girl of considerable fragility, and not an Italian girl who has come suddenly into a woman's love fraught with a heart-breaking warmth and depth of tragic pathos.
Second prize ..... 1 50	Miss Robson similarly contrasted with Miss Galland, and presented a vivacious modern girl of considerable intelligent feeling, but without the tender, languorous, Italian girl which Miss Galland infused with such abundant vitality and genuine poetic purity. Miss Marlowe, however, while presenting much of the full, sensuous beauty of Miss Arthur, much of the poetic emotion of Miss Galland, a greater, richer charm than Miss Adams, a keener, more judicious intelligence than Miss Robson, achieves as great an illusion of girlish youth; above all, she far surpasses any other present day Juliet in the marvelous beauty of tone and accentuation with which she delivers her lines. Surely she is our greatest Juliet.—Theater Magazine.
Third prize ..... 50	Why do you allow your stock to suffer from the flies when a 35-cent can of fly shake will prevent the annoyance? At Dr. Mikel's Drug Store. **
270. Pair Buff Plymouth Rocks ..... $4.50	Infernal Machine Suspect.

Judge John A. Stewart.

In this issue of the Truth will be found the announcement of Judge John A. Stewart, of Columbia, as a candidate for State Senator from this, the 10th district. Judge Stewart has served Boone as county judge two terms and has several times been chairman of the County Democratic Committee. He was born in Kentucky in 1849 and moved to Boone county when a lad of but 16 years and began life as a farm hand. He is able, clean, conscientious and if nominated and elected he will always be found on the side of right.—Hartsville Truth.

Lucky Jack.

Nan (at lake resort)—Yes, Jack has been teaching me how to swim. It's great fun.
Fan—The rascal! He's been pretending to me that he can't swim a stroke, and I put in nearly all of yesterday afternoon teaching him!—Chicago Tribune.

Neck Chains and Bracelets in great variety at Henninger's Jewelry Store. **

Uncertain Destination.

"Who was it that said, 'Be sure you're right and then go ahead?'"
"I don't know," replied Mr. Chuggins. "But he doesn't belong to the chauffeur's union in our town."—Washington Star.
